

read you my quick little creation here which you are about to get your own copy of. "There was a young Governor named Kerrey who thought he might like to remarry, but his woman with the mostest heard about the hostess and said of Nebraska, I'm wary." I guess I think Senator Morehead has already made the point that we might be setting a precedent here that I would suggest, if our Governor happened to be married at the present time, this resolution probably would not have been introduced and I would suggest that we will probably in the future have Governors who are married, whether they happen to be Senator Labedz or some other equally deserving person and I would not wish to take away the power of the executive branch to carry out basically the duties of state and I would see this as that type of duty and I believe if we'd check the Constitution we would find that that role legitimately belongs with the executive branch and not with the legislative branch. So I have to urge you to vote against this resolution. Thank you.

PRESIDENT: Senator Hoagland.

SENATOR HOAGLAND: (Response inaudible.)

PRESIDENT: You asked the question? I don't think there has been adequate debate. I'll put the question to you, the request...there are lights on for recognition. The motion is, shall the debate cease? All those...question, I do see five hands. The question is, shall the debate cease? All those in favor vote aye, opposed vote no. Shall the debate cease? The question is, shall the debate cease on this first important matter of the day? Do you wish to vote on the motion of ceasing debate on this resolution? Have you all voted? The Clerk will record.

CLERK: 25 ayes, 0 nays to cease debate.

PRESIDENT: The motion prevails. The debate is closed. Senator Hefner, you may close.

SENATOR HEFNER: Mr. President and members of the body, I apologize for taking up this much time. I didn't think there would be any opposition to this simple resolution, but I can see that some of our lady senators are a little disturbed about the resolution. Maybe they're a little jealous, I don't know, but I don't think it's that bad. I think some of the other states that have designated their
